

Traditionalist people usually spend most weekends and holidays close to home. The Ray is the most convenient way to keep your feet and create an experience suitable for the whole family, based on tradition without compromising the sanctity of Shabbat and the holiday. At the same time, in recent years thanks to the possibility of making use of technological solutions, there are more and more traditional families who are willing to invest resources in planning vacations based on the professional services of special hotels in the north, which meet the strictest kosher requirement imaginable. That is, all you have to do is simply find a kosher hotel. And be able to plan your vacation, just like you would plan the Shabbat or the holiday at your home.
